

Joyce is the Managing Director and Chief Investment Officer of CUHK Innovation which is a newly setup entity by The Chinese University of Hong Kong to make investments in innovative business and impact ventures relating to CUHK's technological innovations. Prior to that, she was the Investment Director of Cyberport Macro Fund that focuses on early stage investments in the Cyberport community. Joyce was previously the Managing Director at OurCrowd, a hybrid venture capital platform for investing in global startups. With over a decade of experience in hedge fund management, Joyce was the partner and senior portfolio manager of Sumeru Capital, a Greater China-focused equity long/short fund. Before setting up Sumeru capital, she was a portfolio manager at LIM Advisors, managing the event-driven portfolio of Asia's oldest hedge fund. Joyce started her career at Citigroup Hong Kong, where she first worked as a corporate finance analyst at Global Markets and then as an Investment Counselor at Private Bank. Joyce holds an undergraduate degree from the University of Chicago and an MBA from Cheung Kong Graduate School of Business.