

Dr. Haifeng HUANG

Partner, Jones Day

Haifeng Huang is regularly called on to lead teams and advise clients on their complex disputes and intellectual property matters. He has a broad practice covering disputes and transactions involving patents, trademarks, copyrights, trade secrets, unfair competition, antitrust, and technology licenses. The WTR 1000 described him as “one of the country’s most seasoned litigators, with a history of representing large U.S. and Chinese concerns in high-stakes disputes.” Haifeng has advised clients on cases in many courts and agencies throughout China and elsewhere, as well as before multiple arbitration tribunals. These cases have involved a diverse range of industries, including software and systems, semiconductors, microelectronics, telecommunications, textiles, chemicals, optics, consumer products, heavy machinery, pharmaceuticals, medical devices, and biotechnology. He also manages due diligence and transactions and negotiates agreements involving the acquisition, license, and commercialization of intellectual property assets, including R&D collaboration, sponsored research, joint development, clinical trials, cross-licensing, strategic alliance, manufacturing, distribution, consulting, and software services. Haifeng’s extensive experience has received significant recognition, including being named a “WIPR Leader” by World IP Review and selected as an “IP Star” by Managing Intellectual Property. He was also endorsed by peers and clients as a “strategic, very reliable and trustworthy” name and having a “top-notch IP practice” in China in Chambers Global (2020-2021).
